WILLIAM MAYNARD ALLEN

B. A., Colgate University Instructor in High School Science.

Mr Allen rarely hurries, even in his speech, but always seems to be in the midst of things. From the groans issuing from his pupils, he must be a competent teacher He evidently believes in doing everything well, for he is undoubtedly a unique dancer

JANIE L. MCDANIEL

A. B., Tusculum College. Graduate work at University of North Carolina. Librarian.

Miss McDaniels is one of the most impartial persons on the campus. No one has been able to dodge a fine yet. We congratulate you, Miss McDaniel, on your fine business sense. We all respect Miss McDaniel and appreciate the improvements she has made in the library

MRS. HARRIET P WASHINGTON

Studied at Hampton and Tuskegee Institutes. Instructor in Domestic Arts.

Mrs. Washington is the sympathetic, understanding, and motherly type of person, ever ready to lend a helping hand to her girls—those poor unfortunates who always get the left sleeves into the right arm holes and whose circular skirts have a seasick look. Moreover, she finds time to drop a bit of kindly advice to the girls concerning their speech, manner, and dress, thus we, of Straight College feel that we have found a life-long friend in Mrs. Washington.
